Parking fees fight looms for councils

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

MORE than 2,500 people have signed a petition against moves to introduce parking charges in East Cambridgeshire.

Furious business owners and members of the Ely Traders' Association have joined forces to spearhead a campaign urging East Cambridgeshire District Council and Cambridgeshire County Council to abandon plans to introduce civil parking enforcement in Ely, Soham and Littleport.

The petition was distributed to shops and businesses throughout Ely last week and has already attracted 2,500 signatures.

A campaign has also been launched on social networking site Facebook.

Andrew Olley, manager of the City Cycle Centre in Ely's Market Street and a member of the traders' association, said: "The support we've received has been amazing and really proves that people do not want this to happen."

"We gained nearly 1,000 signatures in the first two days."

"With one satellite Tesco and a large Sainsbury's store being constructed away from the heart of Ely, the introduction of parking charges will spell the end for the town centre."

"Ely is a beautiful market city and

Strong showing from toned teen

A STUDENT passionate about physical fitness has qualified for the national bodybuilding championships.

Rory Norman, 18, first took up bodybuilding to improve his fitness and hone his physique.

Now, all the hours spent training and paying close attention to his diet have paid off after he won the recent Anglian Bodybuilding Championships junior class.

Competitors had to hold 10 mandatory poses in front of five judges on stage at the Britannia Theatre in Great Yarmouth. The judges were looking for symmetry, muscularity and conditioning.

Rory, a student at the King's School Ely, said: "The poses have to be held for 90 seconds which, although it doesn't sound a long time, takes a huge amount of concentration and effort, especially with the added pressure of being judged from every angle."

A former competitive swimmer who represented Suffolk in 50 and 100 metre butterfly, Rory is a sporting all-rounder, opening the bowling for the King's School Ely's 1st cricket team and playing wing in the school's 1st rugby team.

He is in the midst of A-level exams in maths, religious studies and sports studies and plans to read philosophy at university and then take a law conversion course.

Expansion plan for telemarketing firm

BLUE Donkey, the Soham-based telemarketing company founded by Sureya Landini 14 years ago, is creating 50 new jobs. The company has recently won new contracts with GE, Lloyds TSB and Experian, and is planning to open offices in Newmarket, Norwich and London. Mrs Landini is also taking on the new role of vice chairman of the Contact Centre and Telemarketing Council with industry trade body the Direct Marketing Association. She said: "It's definitely exciting times. "Blue Donkey's shown that despite being a small Soham business, you can still win against the big London players by working hard to achieve excellence."

Youngsters 'lead the way' at church

THE Diocese of Ely is teaming up with national charity, the Children's Society, to get more children and young people involved with the church. The Bishop of Huntingdon, Dr David Thomson, will spend Saturday with diocese leaders at St Mary's School in Ely, where they will hear a series of lectures and talks telling them how to encourage more youngsters to get involved. Dr Thomson said: "I was at a national conference earlier this year which young people themselves called for the bishops, not the other way round. It was great. "A new partnership across the generations is growing in the church and it's a privilege to be part of it. "Ely's aim is to lead the way."

Chimney tips after fire crew called out

A CHIMNEY fire in Little Downham sparked a 999 call on Sunday. One crew from Ely attended the blaze at a property in Main Street at around 2pm. Firefighters dislodged a blockage in the chimney which was on fire. The cause was accidental. A fire service spokeswoman said: "Please ensure that you get your chimney swept and the brickwork inspected at least once a year. "This will help to prevent a chimney fire."

Musical duo get original with song for hospital

TWO sweet-sounding schoolgirls have recorded their own song to raise money for Great Ormond Street Hospital. Asia Choudhry and Emily James, both aged 11, have turned a simple homework project into what they hope will become a major fundraiser. The girls, both Year 7 pupils at King's Junior School in Ely, have not only written their own song lyrics, calling themselves Originality, but they've also recorded their song, Galaxy, and uploaded it onto the iTunes and Amazon websites. Every penny raised from sales of the song will go to Great Ormond Street Hospital, which is the school's chosen charity this year. Asia said: "We spent a long time working on the project. "It took us about five weeks from thinking of the idea to finishing the recording. "We borrowed my dad's recording equipment and we're really pleased with the result." Emily said: "It took us a long time to create our own Originality logo but it was worthwhile when we first saw it on the Amazon website.

"Now we're hoping lots of people will download the song from Amazon or iTunes and like what they hear." Neil Porter-Thaw, the school's director of music, also inspired the girls to write their song. To listen to the song and download it, visit www.amazon.co.uk/Galaxy/dp/B0052E4L8Q.

Coffee invasion forces changes at iconic cafe

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

A CAFÉ which has been welcoming customers for more than three decades is set for a makeover. Bryant Watson, the owner of The Coffee Mill, in Market Street, has applied for planning permission to change the use of the building. Mr Watson, a well-known businessman and former city mayor, wants to turn the café into a hot food takeaway. He told the Weekly News that competition from large café chains moving into the city had forced the decision. Mr Watson, of Quayside, Ely, said: "The Coffee Mill has been in Ely for over 30 years. "But there is now so much competition from the large café chains that have moved into the city. "It's time to reassess the café and bring it up to date so that we are able to compete to a higher level. "We are proposing to change the use from a café to a hot food takeaway and until a decision on that has been made, the rest is confidential." The application was submitted to East Cambridgeshire District Council this week. It comes just weeks after independent café owners and residents raised concerns about the future of independent retailers in the city.

They claim Ely is not big enough to cope with a Costa Coffee, a Starbucks and now a Caffè Nero, alongside the independents. Caffè Nero started trading in the High Street last month, but the council has now served a planning contravention notice on the massive high street chain after it opened without applying for planning permission or a change of use of the premises. A council spokesman said: "We have issued a planning contravention notice on Caffè Nero in Ely's High Street. "We are now looking at all the options available to us." A decision on Mr Bryant's change of use application is expected within the next eight weeks.

E-space business park caters for growing family business

A FAMILY-run catering firm is the latest business to move into the E-space North business centre in Littleport. Paul and Tessa Jeffs, who run Sunflower Events Catering, have taken over the centre's catering unit. The couple, who have 15 years catering experience, already have a base at nearby Sedgeway Business Park but have taken on another unit to cater for their ever-growing business. Mrs Jeffs said: "We are happy to be able to run our business from these purpose-built premises and look forward to establishing a long-term catering service to the tenants and visitors of e-space north and to the local area." The business centre is located in Wisbech Road, Littleport.

Fun-filled feast for villagers

THE countdown to this year's Sutton Feast celebrations is now on – and organisers are keeping their fingers crossed for sunshine. This year's feast runs from Thursday, June 23 to Sunday, July 3 and looks set to be as entertaining as ever. It kicks off on June 23 with a quiz night in the primary school hall and a glitzy Bollywood film night and meal at The Glebe on June 24. On June 25, a Beating the Bounds walk will set off from the church. There will also be football tournaments, a wheel-a-thon and an evening concert, all at the church. The annual village fun run will take place on June 26, as well as the Tony Robinson memorial run and a teddy bears picnic. On June 28, a treasure hunt will be held at the school and from June 30 – July 2, the ever-popular beer and music festival will take over the church. The celebrations will culminate on July 3 with the annual Sutton Gault duck race and a Last Night of the Proms concert at the church. For a full list of events, call Brian on (01353) 777006 or visit www.suttononline.org.

Drinks all round as pub picks up the best prize

IF YOU like your real ales and pub grub then the White Horse in Witcham should be your next stop.

The popular watering hole has just been crowned the Ely and District Pub of the Year 2011 by the Campaign for Real Ale (Camra).

Tracy Robinson, who took over as landlady three years ago, is delighted.

She said: "We're a family-run pub with no backing from a brewery or anything like that.

"There's also stiff competition when it comes to pubs in the Ely area so we're delighted to have won.

"We would like to thank our customers for their continued support.

"When we first came to the pub it was dead – now we have two darts teams, two pool teams, lots of entertainment and a roaring trade."

Eric Martin, one of the Camra judges, said: "The specific reason we selected the White Horse as winning public house was ultimately down to the consistent high quality of the real ale served and their support for local smaller independent brewers.

"The pub offers a really warm and welcoming ambience too."

Study reveals station issues for travellers

MORE needs to be done to encourage commuters to walk or cycle to Ely Railway Station, a study has revealed.

Councillors at East Cambridgeshire District Council met on Tuesday to discuss the conclusions of a survey which looked at how to develop the station in the future.

It found that just 55 per cent of travellers walk or cycle to the station and that there is still a large proportion who would perceive driving a car as more convenient than travelling by rail.

The research also revealed poor connectivity to bus services as well as walking and cycling routes, a lack of information about local transport connections and improvements were suggested for the ticket hall.

The district council says it will now work with Network Rail and other organisations to identify funding opportunities to make the improvements, including more cycle parking facilities, improved pedestrian access and a 'Smarter Travel Choices' information campaign.

Skunk crop accused 'thought it was sage'

A MAN accused of running one of Britain's biggest cannabis farms has claimed he thought he was growing sage.

Kevin Hart, 41, is standing trial at Cambridge Crown Court charged with conspiracy to produce a class B drug.

It follows a police raid on a massive three-storey barn at a farm in Haddenham in July last year, where almost 7,000 cannabis plants worth £45,000 were seized.

Officers believe the skunk farm produced cannabis worth £3 million every year – with set-up costs of £200,000 alone – and was one of the "top three" drug factories uncovered in the UK.

Huge quantities of carbon monoxide were pumped from canisters into the metal barn to encourage industrial amounts of cannabis to grow under UV lights, a jury was told on Tuesday.

Hart, of Elm Close, Huntingdon, claims he established the farm to grow the herb

BY JACK GROVE

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

sage, which can be smoked legally, but severed his links with the operation three years later when he found out they were produced illegal drugs.

John Farmer, prosecuting, ridiculed Hart's defence, calling it "perfectly absurd".

He said: "This was a seriously profitable criminal enterprise. It required substantial capital investment and day-to-day operation.

"The cannabis factory was being operated very professionally. Experts say this is in the top three in terms of size ever found by police.

"Mr Hart took the lease on these premises and immediately converted the barn. The operation had been running some time."

Six men have already pleaded guilty to charges related to growing cannabis.

Hart's defence about growing sage was a cynical attempt to exploit a possible error during the trial, Mr

Farmer added.

He told the jury: "He is running the trial in the hope that the prosecution or the judge makes a mistake and you are encouraged into a not guilty verdict.

"He has plucked this one out of the clear blue sky."

He added Hart was already damned by his own admissions. He told officers he had walked away from the enterprise on January 15 last year,

“He is running the trial in the hope that the prosecution or the judge makes a mistake and you are encouraged into a not guilty verdict. He has plucked this one out of the clear blue sky.”

– John Farmer, prosecutor

but bank statements showed he continued to pay the £1,700 a month rent for several months.

He said: "Even on his own defence, he has no defence because he went on assisting this venture."

The jury was also shown CCTV footage taken from the farm, which was discovered by police helicopter using thermal imaging equipment able to pick up the heat given off by UV lighting.

Those images showed the 6,000sq.ft warehouse operated next to a legitimate potato packing factory at Tree Farm, Haddenham, and was hidden by a mountain of wooden crates.

The barn was sealed with duct tape to stop cannabis odours from escaping, while a petrol-driven generator as big as a large caravan was used to power UV lights and ventilation.

The trial continues and is expected to last two weeks.

Pharmacy moves in to offer 'independent' service

AN independent pharmacy will soon be opening its doors in Ely.

Haut House, in St Mary's Street, is to be renovated and opened as St Mary's Pharmacy, the Weekly News can reveal.

Pharmacist Yahya Shah and his wife, Shamiela Hussain, a dentist, have bought the five-storey building, next to Domino's, and hope to have the pharmacy up and running by early August.

The couple will be moving to the Ely area from their current home in Liverpool.

Speaking to the Weekly News, Mr Shah said: "We're really excited. This is our first business venture but with me being a pharmacist and my wife being a dentist, we are confident it's going to do well.

"Ely has its national pharmacy chains but it doesn't have any independent ones.

"We want St Mary's Pharmacy to be everything that a local pharmacy should be – basically somewhere where people can walk in off the street and get their medication easily and efficiently.

"Our service will be tailored to meet the individual needs of each of our customers.

"We hope to open around the end of July or early August."

The couple applied to East Cambridgeshire District Council late last year for planning permission to change the use of Haut House. Permission was granted in February this year.

The mayor of Ely, Cllr John Yates, has welcomed the new pharmacy.

He said: "Ely doesn't have an independent pharmacy and I think it's great that we will have another service to serve the people of Ely and beyond."

Footballers pitch in with fundraising match

FOOTBALLERS took to the pitch in memory of a much-loved community-spirited woman.

A charity football match was held last weekend in memory of Carol Peacock, from Mepal.

Mrs Peacock died on March 30 after a gruelling seven-year battle with cancer.

During that time, she continued to support local football teams through the work, undertaken by her family's sports field drainage business, and by serving match-day refreshments at Ely City FC and Mepal Sports.

Her son, Giles Peacock, and his friend, Andy King, organised the match at Witchford Village College's 3G-pitch and raised money for the oncology department at Addenbrooke's Hospital, Cambridge, where Mrs Peacock was treated during her illness.

Yobs vandalise new sport zone

A STATE-of-the-art new sports facility has been vandalised just months after it was formally opened by tennis superstar Tim Henman.

Residents in the Barley Fields Estate and Kingfisher Drive area of Soham are being urged to keep watch over the new adiZone and report any anti-social behaviour or vandalism.

It comes after numerous signs informing people about how to use the equipment were smashed.

Scorch marks have also been discovered on rubber matting and a plaque commemorating the facility's opening has been damaged. Yobs have also scrawled graffiti on the site, including the tennis wall.

Father-of-two David Brereton, of Kingfisher Drive, said: "Some

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

people are just out there to ruin things for others.

"This new adiZone is fantastic for Soham. My children love it as there is so much for them to do.

"But it's gradually looking shabbier and shabbier where a certain group of people are trying to ruin it.

"I wouldn't be surprised if it'll be out of bounds soon as it'll be too dangerous for people to use."

Soham was one of only a few towns nationwide, including Littleport, to get an adiZone.

The quirky sports facilities have been designed by adidas as part of the 2012 London Olympic Games legacy, and to get people, especially children, exercising.

It boasts everything from treadmills to climbing walls and squash courts.

David Giles, clerk to Soham Town Council, said: "We're so annoyed and disappointed that this has happened.

"Thankfully the damage hasn't damaged any of the equipment but it has made it look unsightly.

"We have been in touch with adidas to find out how we can eliminate the vandalism problems and are awaiting their response.

"In the meantime, we would urge residents to keep an eye out for any anti-social behaviour and vandalism and to report it straight away to police.

"We want this facility to be in the town for years to come so we are working hard to tackle the issues."

Lynda Clarke-Jones, clerk to Littleport Parish Council, said the adiZone in Littleport had not been vandalised.

Store's bright idea to support elderly

AN ELY store has vowed to raise cash for the charity Age UK – and launched its support campaign with a colourful fun day.

Wilkinson in Ely has chosen Age UK as its charity of the year and recently hosted a fun day for staff and customers.

To reflect the charity's bright identity, staff filled the store with colour and dressed head to toe in bright attire.

A spokesman said: "We're delighted to be supporting Age UK, as the challenges facing people in later life is an issue that we all feel very strongly about.

"We had a great time entertaining our customers and we're hoping to raise as much as we can."

Staff will be donating their time throughout the next 12 months to help the charity.

currently boasts a variety of independent traders and two traditional department stores among the more familiar names of the national retailers.

"The demise of a town centre is sadly all too familiar but it is not too late for Ely – we're going to keep the pressure on the councils and show them that what they are proposing is wrong."

The councils want to apply to the Department for Transport to roll out civil parking enforcement across the region.

As well as forcing motorists to pay to park in both car parks and on streets, the scheme could give police and traffic wardens the power to enforce parking restrictions, issue tickets and fine motorists.

The councils insist civil parking enforcement will reduce congestion and make roads safer.

Peter Moakes, leader of the district council, said falling Government grants and greater demands on services had forced the authority to look at introduction charges.

He said: "For a small authority like East Cambridgeshire, there reaches a point when there is nothing left to cut, so looking at changes is inevitable.

"Last year, we spent over £350,000 on car parks in Ely; a significant proportion of these costs were funded by council tax payers from across the whole of the district. This is a substantial amount that could be used to support other community-based services.

"I would like to stress that when we put forward proposals, we will consult widely and openly about them. We will listen but the debate has to be seen in the context of the financial pressures which we face."

The traders association expects to present the petition to the councils next month.

Mr Olley said: "They can be found in shops throughout Ely so if you want to save Ely from becoming a ghost town, sign it."

Gill Lambdin, manager of Tindalls in Ely's Market Place, said: "Forcing people to pay to park will have a massive effect on trade in Ely.

"Things are difficult enough as it is so the council shouldn't be doing something that's going to make it harder for businesses."

To view the councils' draft application, visit: www.cambridgeshire.gov.uk/transport/projects/east/CivilParkingEnforcement.html

Fun and games as pupils ditch class

THERE were smiles all round when secondary school pupils were able to ditch lessons.

Students at Soham Village College enjoyed a welcome break from work last week by swapping their usual timetables for a variety of activities.

Everything from fashion design workshops to korfball to gardening skills projects took over the school grounds for the two-day event.

There were more than 30 activities, including 3D games, international food tasting, French bowls, outdoor art, musical theatre and nail art.

Some even camped for a day in a camper van, others devised and rehearsed their own play and a group of students built a nature garden using materials donated by local businesses.

A school spokeswoman said: "They've all worked so hard recently and it was fantastic to see them learning new skills, working as a team and trying things that they probably never usually would."

Precept fighters' call for election

VILLAGERS fighting a 28 per cent hike to their council tax precept have called for an election at their parish council.

Residents in Sutton have lodged a request with East Cambridgeshire District Council for an election to be held at Sutton Parish Council.

It comes after more than 70 residents attended a public meeting at the parish council headquarters last week to hear why the precept hike was needed.

Residents have been campaigning against the rise since it was announced earlier this year. The council insists the increase is fair for the number of services it provides.

Last week, council chairman Gordon Foster accused residents of "council baiting" his authority and exaggerating the issue.

Now campaigners have asked the district council to order an election.

A decision is expected within the next few weeks.

Gitta Evans, one of the main protesters, said: "The aims of residents are not revolutionary, in light of what has happened over a number of years at Sutton Parish Council there is a call for a lower acceptable precept, openness and transparency with information, and public consultation on major expenditure.

"If council baiting or bashing are appropriate words to describe a demand from residents to be heard then there is something fundamentally wrong with how a parish council perceives its taxpayers."

Squatters pitch up on farm land

SQUATTERS have set up camp in an Ely beauty spot.

Tents have been illegally pitched in a small copse area near Ely's Country Park.

Eagle-eyed dog walkers have spotted the tents deep within trees in a field near Roswell Pits and Pocket Park.

People are not pleased about their presence – and neither is landowner, local farmer Tony Lee.

Mr Lee told the Weekly News: "I spotted the tents in there and thought they were a bit suspicious.

"They shouldn't be there – it's my land and it's illegal.

"I didn't dare go over and say

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

anything to them but I'm going to call the police.

"I love letting people walk through that field, which I call Lovers Lane, and it's popular with dog walkers. But I can't have people secretly camping in the trees."

Alarmed members of the public contacted the Weekly News after spotting the tents. They believed the land was owned by East Cambridgeshire District Council.

Prickwillow resident Rupert Haynes, who walks his dogs there regularly, said: "The people using the tents have obviously tried to hide them as they're pitched quite deep into the copse.

"I noticed them as one of my dogs ran in there after a rabbit and I went in there to see what he was up to.

"There were a few things that made it appear like people were living in them there."

Another dog walker, who did not want to be named, said: "I spotted the tents. I looked like there were two or three of them.

"They obviously shouldn't be there so I hope they're moved on straight away.

"Lots of people, including myself, walk their dogs there but it's a bit worrying if there are strange people in tents lurking around."

Village's 'final nail in coffin'

Sir, I have just read the article regarding the intention to charge for parking in Ely, Soham and Littleport. I can only speak for Littleport and if this proposition goes ahead it will be the final 'nail in the coffin' for the village. This was at one time a very viable village, but not anymore. I was a shop keeper in the village for 20 years from 1970 until 1990. During that time many shops closed their doors due to the introduction of large out-of-town shops, especially in Ely, thus destroying the smaller shops in the village.

At one time there were four general food stores and this was reduced to one until the last few months when a new shop opened away from the village centre. As expected, this has now taken trade from the centre store and effectively split the village in half. Additional concerns are that the new Co-op has plenty of parking for shoppers whereas the existing store shop has restricted parking. If people have to pay to shop in the centre of the village then this will be the last phase of the village closing. Permission has also been granted for a garage on the outskirts of the village to be erected which has taken additional trade from the centre. This situation cannot go on if you want a viable town centre. With your proposed parking charges there will be no reason to enter the village car park and additional trade will be lost. In my time in the village (40 years) I have witnessed the closing of 40 shops. At one time there were seven butchers – now only one.

I understand that the draft plan for the future of the village has now been approved and one of the comments was that they want to maintain and increase the number of retail outlets. Not a chance if parking charges are introduced. All the plans will have been discussed and approved in vain if your proposals go ahead. I would like the names of all the members of the council who approve the move so that a plaque can be erected in their memory and show who helped to give the death knell to the village.

I hope that you will heed my warnings and not continue with any charges. All the comments by Cllr Criswell are rubbish and, from his comments, he has no idea about parking in the area.

I do not suppose that he ever goes to the areas to shop and his information is only made up or 'second-hand'. He seems to be the 'voice' at the moment but I consider he has his head in the sand and does not consider the future of any of the village shops.

Why should someone who has nothing to do with the village be allowed to make comments on the village and destroy the few remaining stores? I expect he never visits any of the places he is talking about.

Some years ago the Main Street was made into a one-way street and considerable trade was lost for ever when that happened. Again, a decision made by someone who had no connection with the village.

To summarise – 40 shops shut in 40 years. Only a few remaining – additional shops outside the centre with no restrictions. Why should anyone pay for the privilege of entering the village if they have to pay for parking? Are councillors intent on

Critics should volunteer to help keep city blooming

Sir, In response to your article on Ely's Floral Displays featured in the June 2 issue, I hasten to defend the hard working team who provide the City of Ely with the wonderful displays Ely has enjoyed over recent years.

Do those who are so quick to criticise and complain not realise that although we have had "summer weather" since mid-April, with a drought situation ever since, it is still only early June – the traditional time for planting up baskets? Bedding plants have struggled to survive this extreme climate, which has challenged all those involved in horticulture and farming.

However, I was one of the few volunteers who responded to the call for help in planting up the 275 baskets, which Ely will soon be enjoying. Once in situ the council gardening team will be out with the bowers, often as early as 5am, to water and care for these displays before starting their normal workload which often does not finish until 7pm during

Green space: planting in Market Place

the height of the season. Perhaps these critics might consider doing a little volunteering themselves.

So, the lack of display has nothing at all to do with the Ely in Bloom competition but all to do with very unusual seasonal weather – very soon the streets and parks of Ely will be aglow with colour and beauty and the envy of many other towns. Be grateful to those who strive so hard to keep it that way.

the destruction of village life?

I await all the names of the councillors who agree with the proposal and if charges are implemented a plaque can be erected in their honour for destroying the remaining village facilities.

Parking fees will ruin business

Sir, I think it is totally unnecessary to bring in parking charges for Ely. I run a small franchise and use the Paradise Sports Centre three days a week.

I know that if my customers have to pay for parking on top of my fees, some will think twice about coming. I cannot afford to cut my prices to compensate for the parking charges and am 100 per cent against any parking charges being brought to Ely. It will definitely ruin my business in this area.

Little wildlife in nature reserve

Sir, Deborah Curtis of Littleport is mistaken in her criticism of me and my many Fen friends.

The Nature Reserve at Wicken Fen started as a private hunting ground for Victorian entomologists. I guess that the comparative peace and quiet was attractive to those scientists and bug collectors. The reserve consisted of a few hundred acres. Nobody, so far as I know, criticised it. I recall Lt Col Charles Mitchell, the warden/naturalist from 1961 until 1978. I liked the man. He did a good job.

It was only in the 1990s that other ambitious people appeared and proposed a dramatic expansion of the nature reserve to include thousands more acres of the best food-producing land lying between Wicken and Cambridge – land which is the responsibility of the Swaffham Internal Drainage Board, of which I have been a member for many years, to keep drained for effective and economic food production.

It is this dramatic expansion that bugs a lot of us and it is an expansion not only of the reserve but also of the numbers of visitors to the reserve. The scientists and the bugs are now taking second place in the race to create an enormous Fen theme park.

Finally, I don't need to take up Ms Curtis's challenge to visit Wicken Fen. I have been. There was little to see except other visitors. I was bored. There is more wildlife in my Fen back garden, where there is peace and quiet, than at Wicken Fen.

Geoffrey Woollard

Part of solution, not the problem

Sir, I had hoped to let this matter drop, but the letter from Deborah Curtis failed to address the real issues. She does not live in Wicken and chose to be personally offensive towards Geoffrey Woollard. She suggests he should visit Wicken Fen. I suspect he has done so more often than she has. Personally I find it a soulless place never having heard any birds other than ducks and the wretched cockerels crowing at the house. How ironic that your picture shows the non-native Highland cattle!

As for the comment about the increasing acreage affecting starving Africa, I don't recall anything being mentioned about Africa. My point consistently has been about the need for every acre of agricultural land being needed for food for our country.

Get real Ms Curtis, the oil is running out. Where do you think our food for this massively overpopulated country will come from? It's no skin off my nose, with luck I will be dead and buried, but what about the future of the children who so enjoy the reserve? The issue is not about the fen as it stands, but about the greedy acquisition of two farms and 24 more acres of land which should be used for food growth. The other issue is the one of water which I raised two weeks ago. Now we are officially in a drought and what is to become of the wetland wildlife encouraged to Wicken Fen if this becomes the norm? Nobody from the National Trust has bothered to explain.

Mr Woollard has been accused of "ill-informed twaddle" which is not only rude, but false. As a farmer he knows of what he speaks.

Surprisingly Ms Curtis has ignored the facts I wrote, having acquired them from the Environment Agency, together with what is there for all to see – the drought. There is none so blind as those who will not look. She should take a walk on a footpath crossing a wheat field where she will find empty husks. Instead of encouraging flooding a massive area of fen, it would be better that the water be used for watering farmers' fields. The NT should stick with what it has, goodness knows it has enough of it here and elsewhere.

The elderly are dismissed out of hand, while at the same time we are blamed for all the ills of our country. You can't have it both ways.

At least Mr Woollard, others and myself care enough to write letters instead of sitting on the sidelines moaning. I am a believer in the saying "if you're not part of the solution you're part of the problem".

So let's have less personalised nastiness and more thinking through the points of concern being raised. I just wish the National Trust would take notice of the concerns instead of arrogantly continuing on the same destructive path. I also wish that farmers and the county council would stop selling land to it.

Mum's plea to save unit

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

A MUM is throwing her weight behind a campaign to prevent the closure of a hospital cardiac unit which saved her son's life.

Karen Gannon's son, Phillip, was just 11 days old when he underwent the first of three open heart procedures.

Phillip was born with four major heart defects and spent months in intensive care at the Royal Brompton Hospital in London.

Mrs Gannon says her son, now 25, would not be alive today if it wasn't for the dedication of surgeons and nurses at the specialist heart and lung centre.

But despite being the largest specialist centre in the UK, the hospital's children's cardiac unit is now under threat of closure as part of major NHS cut-backs.

Mrs Gannon, who lives with Phillip, her husband Colin, and other son, Chris, 21, in Clay Street, Soham, is among thousands of parents, including celebrities such as television presenter Philip Schofield, protesting against the proposals.

Mrs Gannon, 49, said: "I am beside myself with anger and worry.

"The unit, alongside surgeons at Great Ormond Street Hospital, fought night and day to keep Phillip alive and they succeeded.

"If it closes, the lives of children and adults are being put at risk."

Phillip, who has learning difficulties and mild cerebral palsy as a result of the extensive surgery he went through as a baby, is now a Soham Scout leader and works at Waitrose in Newmarket.

He still attends the hospital for annual check-ups.

Mrs Gannon said: "If it wasn't for this hospital unit, Phillip wouldn't be alive today.

"We, like so many families out there, owe them for keeping him alive. This unit cannot be allowed to close.

"The more support that people show, the less likely it is to be shut down."

A consultation about the proposed closure has been launched and people have until July 1 to have their say.

Patients' charity The Brompton Fountain has spearheaded a campaign against the proposed closure and says children's lives will be put at risk.

For more information or to comment on the proposal, visit www.thebromptonfountain.org.uk or www.specialisedservices.nhs.uk/safeandsustainable

Thief takes pushchair

A MUM was appalled to find her children's pushchair had been stolen from outside a chapel.

Gemma Easey, 29, had taken her 3-year-old son Joe and 1-year-old daughter Grace to a musical tots' session in Witchford when thieves struck last Wednesday.

The weekly class is held at the Baptist Chapel in the village's Main Street and Mrs Easey left her £375 red-coloured 'Phil and Ted' double buggy outside the chapel alongside other buggies and scooters at 9.15am.

But when the class finished at 10.30am and she went back outside to take her children for home, she discovered it had been stolen.

Mrs Easey, of Ward Way, Witchford, said: "I just can't believe it.

"It's unusual for something like that to happen in Witchford – especially in the village's busiest area. "I've got all the mums keeping an eye out for it."

Police are urging anyone with any information to call them on 0345 4564564.

Attempted burglary trial

AN Ely man is to stand trial accused of attempted burglary. Thomas Aldridge, of Chiefs Street, is charged with attempting to burgle a house in Downham Road, Ely, on May 28. The 32-year-old is also accused of going equipped for burglary on the same date.

Aldridge appeared at Cambridge Magistrates' Court last Thursday and pleaded not guilty to both charges.

He did however plead guilty to a charge of criminal damage at a property in Downham Road, Ely, and a charge of possessing a controlled Class B drug.

Aldridge will stand trial at the city's courthouse on July 22, where he will also be sentenced for the charges he has admitted.

He was released on bail not to go to an address in Downham Road, Ely.

Centre's free pass to fitness for men

MEN are being offered a free three-day unlimited access pass to the Paradise Centre in Ely.

To celebrate annual Men's Health Week, which started on Monday, the centre is encouraging men of all ages to get into shape and enjoy the benefits of a healthy, active lifestyle.

The three-day pass allows use of the swimming pool, gym classes and all gym facilities, as well as receiving expert advice on improving personal fitness.

Lizzy McConnell, the centre's contract manager, said: "Men's Health Week is a fantastic initiative and something that we always try and support.

"Offering this free pass, provides the perfect opportunity for all men within the community to come down to Paradise Pool and make the most of our fantastic facilities and not only enjoy the benefits of exercise during Men's Health Week, but hopefully on a regular basis."

Visit the centre in Newnham Street, Ely, or call (01353) 665481.

FETE FUN: St George's Church in Little Thetford was aglow with colour at the weekend.

The Friends of the Church held their biennial flower festival on Saturday and Sunday.

The theme was '20th century village life' and displays were designed to show everything from how transport has changed to how the village school has grown.

Local historian Mike Petty also hosted a talk and the event culminated with a Songs of Praise service. It is hoped the event raised more than £600 for the church.

Chair of the Friends, Tony Shaw, said: "We could not have put on this event without the enormous amount of work that the Friends put in both prior to and during the weekend. "It is a great credit to them that the event was such a success."

Bishop's fears for rural towns

THE Bishop of Ely has reacted to David Cameron's Big Society notion by saying he is concerned for poor people living in market towns.

The Rt Rev Stephen Conway told his Diocesan Synod last week that "demonising the poor to save money is a cynical abuse of power", as he reflected on last week's debate between the Archbishop of Canterbury and the coalition Government.

He told Synod members gathered at Witchford Community College that "the Prime Minister was the first to assert the right of the Archbishop of Canterbury to articulate the fear which many people have about the future of our public services".

Bishop Stephen told the gathering: "We are properly concerned about how poor people living in our market towns, let alone in the deep countryside, will be able to access jobs via public transport."

"I know that the senior officers and political leaders of our local authorities are working very hard to ensure that services are sustained for those in real need."

"We need to be vigilant as well as co-operative citizens."

He added: "Mr Cameron was right that we need to take up the opportunities both to identify the importance of social capital in our economic future and to throw ourselves into the running of a generous society."

A KEEN poet and dedicated Women's Institute member has celebrated her 100th birthday.

Friends and family of Gwendoline Pallant gathered at her home in Woolpack Yard in Ely to raise a toast to her centenary.

Mrs Pallant was born Gwendoline Barnard in South Walsham, Norfolk, in 1911 and was one of 11 children of Charles and Lizzie Barnard.

She grew up in the tiny Norfolk village of Lyng and married her late husband Gordon Pallant in Attleborough in 1940.

Shortly after getting married, the couple moved to Ely to be closer to Mrs Pallant's sister, Doris Bunting, and her husband Ernie, who was in the RAF.

Mrs Pallant has lived in the city ever since, first in St Mary's Street, then at numerous addresses, including High Barns, and Broad Street.

It was only just over a year ago that Mrs Pallant moved into sheltered accommodation from her beloved home in Cromwell Road.

Together, Mr and Mrs Pallant had four children, Carole, Mervin, Marilyn and Graham, who has sadly died.

Mrs Pallant said: "I did lots of different work over the years, mainly cleaning and housekeeping for people and caring for them if they needed me.

"I also worked at the old Dorman Sprayers factory in Brays Lane for a while and the old lampshade factory."

"Gordon worked there too, and at the jam factory – we did lots of different work."

In her spare time, Mrs Pallant was a member of the Isle of Ely WI group and loved entering their competitions.

She said: "I loved baking, knitting and crochet."

"I used to enter lots of competitions and have won quite a few trophies in my time."

"I was also a member of the Mothers' Union at St Mary's Church for many years."

Mrs Pallant, who has eight grandchildren and six great-grandchildren, is a keen poet and had one of her poems published in the Eastern England Rhythms anthology in 1997.

She said: "I can't believe I'm 100 – I just keep on going."

"I just keep myself to myself and never give up on anything."

"I think that's what keeps you going."

Dogs on show for fundraiser

DOG owners from across the region descended on Soham with their prized pooches.

A fun dog show was held at Alan's Ark last month which saw everything from groomed German shepherds to matted mongrels strutting their stuff.

The event was held to raise money for the Lisa Barnes Memorial Fund, set up in memory of Ely woman Lisa Barnes to raise money for Arthur Rank Hospice in Cambridge. A total of £501 was raised.

Robert Barnes, founder of the charity, said:

"Even though the weather was blustery, the event was a huge success."

"I would like to thank the team at Alan's Ark and all the dog owners who attended."

Church-goers confirmed

THE Feast of Pentecost was celebrated at Ely Cathedral on Sunday with a special diocesan confirmation service.

In the Christian faith, Pentecost marks the moment when the Holy Spirit comes upon the church.

Both the Bishops of Ely, Stephen Conway, and Huntingdon, David Thomson, were at the service to confirm candidates into the Church of England.

Bank's bid for cool cash

A BANK in Ely could soon boast a new air conditioning system. Barclays, in the High Street, has applied for planning permission to install the new system.

The plans include placing four new condensers in the garden at the rear of the bank.

Storage unit for village

A STORAGE unit could be built at a house in Coveney. E Palmer & Sons, of Main Street, have applied to East Cambridgeshire District Council for planning permission to erect the facility. A decision is expected within the next eight weeks.

Mums prepare for park picnic

A PICNIC will be held in Ely next Tuesday to celebrate National Breastfeeding Week.

The NCT charity, Isle of Ely branch, will mark the week with a gathering in Cherry Hill Park between 10am and noon.

All mums, whether breastfeeding or not – as well as dads and children – are welcome to the event, where there will be free teas, coffees and nibbles.

There will also be a drop-in event the following day at the Old Dispensary in Ely, hosted by Lactation Consultant Sarah Oakley.

Mums will be able to get advice about breastfeeding as well as weaning, real nappies and hypno-birthing.

Refreshments will be available.

Sarah Bell, branch chairman, said: "NCT Isle of Ely branch is proud to support National Breastfeeding Week. Research shows that nine out of 10 women stop breastfeeding before they want to, so NCT offers information and support for all mums and mums-to-be, enabling them to give their baby the best start in life."

NCT breastfeeding counsellors are available to answer questions and provide support around baby feeding. Call the NCT Breastfeeding Line on 0300 330 0771.

Joy over U-turn on holiday let cottage

CONTENTIOUS plans to turn one of Ely's listed buildings into holiday lets have been thrown out – under orders of East Cambridgeshire District Council's new leader.

The council's planning committee approved plans earlier this year to transform Maltings Cottage, in Waterside, into two council-run, self-contained holiday flats.

The decision caused uproar with community leaders and residents, who insisted their views were being ignored, that the council was being greedy and that there were better ways to make use of the derelict building for the benefit of the whole community.

Now Cllr Peter Moakes, recently-elected council leader, has scrapped the plans in order to take a fresh look at how to cottages can be used.

Cllr Moakes said the cottage should be "part of a package" that adds to the experience of Ely's Riverside.

He has called a meeting tomorrow to discuss the fate of the cottages – and local community leaders have been invited.

Cllr Moakes said: "We feel that there are many excellent ideas concerning the future for this high profile asset.

"I want to re-open the whole debate and we have no pre-determined views."

The U-turn will come as a relief to many residents and community organisations, including the Ely Society, the City of Ely Perspective and the Friends of Ely's Jubilee Gardens.

Since the controversial plans were announced, the Weekly News has been bombarded with letters from people suggesting better uses for the building. They include using it to house the city's registry office, turning it into a community-run café and transforming it into a mini tourist information centre.

Ely resident Allyson Broadhurst, who campaigned against the holiday lets proposal, said: "I'm delighted with the decision.

"So many brilliant ideas for the future of Maltings Cottage were raised during the consultation period yet the council went ahead with the one option that the majority of people were opposing.

"I would encourage the council to think more positively about these ideas and use the cottage to the benefit of the whole Riverside area."

Tile service freshens up rooms

NOW is a great time for home improvements, with the warmer weather and longer hours of daylight making work less of a hassle.

For a quick and easy way to have a real impact on your home, why not consider tiles from a reputable local firm?

The Ely Tile Centre has recently celebrated eight years of trading, and what its owner David Craig doesn't know about tiles isn't worth knowing.

The popular store continues to offer its customers a wide range of tiles for every room of your home, with plenty of new stock to freshen up your environment this summer.

David, who has more than 20 years of experience in tiling, imports his stock from worldwide destinations and with the widest choice of tiles in the area, customers are guaranteed to be spoilt for choice.

Imported from as far away as China and the Philippines, he has a selection of plain tiles in a range of colours with coordinating mosaic tiles which can be used to create an eye-catching border.

A new range from Lakeland Stone is available, including polished and brushed marble and travertine tiles. There are also new selections of cleft slates, honed and polished limestone, glass mosaic sheets with embossed décor, and a range of Heritage tiles, in colours including mint, coconut and coffee.

The centre is conveniently located at the Shades of rock as staff don glasses for charity

BUSINESSES have raised more than £1,000 for the Teenage Cancer Trust (TCT) after their employees donned sunglasses for the day.

Ely-based recruitment agency Neaves & Neat Employment Services Ltd, based in Broad Street, came up with the 'Rock Your Shades' idea and were supported by staff at other local firms, including NFU, Integral UK and Thurlow Nunn Standen.

The event raised £1,131 for the TCT.

A spokeswoman for Neaves & Neat said: "We would like to thank all of our visitors, suppliers, contractors and the other companies for their support. The money will help the TCT with the amazing work they do for young people who are battling cancer."

Cheers for beers

REAL ale lovers from across the region will be flocking to Wilburton this weekend.

Now in its 13th year, the village's annual beer festival will showcase a wide variety of real ales and beers, including locally-brewed creations and those from further afield.

There will also be the usual local ciders, live bands, children's entertainment, children's bar and plenty of food.

The event takes place on the village recreation ground from 12-11.30pm on Saturday and 12-5.30pm on Sunday.

Families are welcome although dogs are not allowed.

As ever, the festival will be raising much-needed funds for local charities.

Firm's four charges over pipe fitter's fall

A PACKAGING company has pleaded not guilty to health and safety breaches after a man fell from a suspended ceiling, sustaining multiple injuries.

Anson Packaging Limited was represented by solicitor James Maxwell-Scott in Cambridge Crown Court last Friday where four offences were put to him.

The offences, brought by the Health and Safety Executive, were breaches in relation to the safety of employees and non-employees, in this case Tony Strong, an employee of Cambs Compressors Engineering Ltd.

Two further counts were put to the company related to the Work at Height Regulations Act 2005, which states that employers should ensure that work is properly planned, supervised and carried out, and section 5 of the same Act, which states that employers should not allow anyone to work at a height without being competent to do so or under supervision if in training.

Mr Strong had been working at the Anson Packaging site, in Sutton, fitting pipes on October 29, 2008 when the accident happened.

He was in a roof void in a suspended ceiling when he fell six-and-a-half metres to the ground. He sustained two fractures to his skull, fractures to his spine in two places and three broken ribs.

The case was adjourned until December 12 for trial.

Learn to support creativity

ADULTS are being given the chance to mentor youngsters and help them develop in the arts.

Arts Development in East Cambridgeshire (ADeC) will run a one-day course on Monday to train people to become an Arts Award adviser.

The Arts Award is a national qualification managed by Trinity College London which supports youngsters aged 11–25 to enjoy the arts, develop creative skills and become arts leaders.

It can help young people who are interested in any art form.

Nathan Jones, from ADeC said: "The Arts Award is a fantastic scheme. We have run it at ADeC for several years and seen the huge effect it has on young people – helping them develop their interests and grow in confidence.

"If someone communicates well with young people and can offer support and information to enable them to explore their creativity then they should consider getting involved."

The course will be held at the Babylon Gallery from 10am–5pm.

The course costs £140, which includes lunch.

To attend, people must be 18 or older and have three years experience working with young people on a part-time basis or two years on a full-time basis.

To book your place or for more information, call (01353) 611591 or visit www.artsaward.co.uk

'Neglected': the north transept's roof and stonework need urgent work.

'We need to act on

Ely's famous cathedral is in need of repair and a campaign has been launched to raise £140,000 for the work. Reporter JORDAN DAY takes a tour and finds out cathedral bosses are in a race against time to raise the cash.

masonry are becoming more and more prominent and some of it is starting to loosen.

"We desperately need to get to work and repair any masonry that we can – and fix the roof.

"It may even be that some of the stonework is not fixable and that it has to be replaced.

"There is concern that if this façade of the building is allowed to disintegrate, the impact on the whole structure could be enormous and could cause catastrophic, long-term damage."

Because the cathedral receives no official government funding or cash from the Church of England, bosses have to continually fundraise, apply for grants and rely on donations for such repair work to be carried out.

Formal permission for the repair and renovation work has already been granted by the Cathedral Fabric Advisory Commission for England.

Purcell Miller Tritton, one of the leading architects for historic buildings, has prepared a detailed report and the total cost of the works has been valued at £280,000.

The cathedral has been given a £100,000 grant from the Wolfson Foundation, a charity that awards grants to support excellence in the fields of education and the arts, to put towards the major renovation project.

An anonymous private donor has also handed over £40,000 towards the work.

However, the cathedral still needs £140,000.

And to make things worse, if the work has not been started by December 31 this year, the Wolfson Foundation will have to withdraw its grant.

Mrs Roulinson said: "Anyone who lives or works in an old building will know that they require constant maintenance.

"When it comes to the cathedral, parts of it like the north transept are so old and historic that that they can quickly get into a poor state.

"It's important to emphasise that no areas of the cathedral are unsafe or dangerous.

"But what is important is that we deal with problems now to make sure that things don't escalate.

"Obviously the work is going to be very complex and will involve roofers, stone masonry specialists, stained glass conservers and many more.

"Scaffolding will also have to be put around the transept whilst the work is carried out.

"But we need to act fast to prevent the transept from falling further into a state of disrepair."

Cathedral bosses want to start the repair work to the north transept as swiftly as possible.

They are appealing for people and organisations who can help fund the project to come forward.

The Dean of Ely, the Very Rev Dr Michael Chandler, said that the cathedral is listed as one of the Seven Medieval Wonders of the World.

He said: "Alongside its Christian mission, Ely Cathedral is also a major international visitor attraction and a significant UK tourist destination.

"The building brings visitors from all over the world and, with it, a substantial source of income to the benefit of numerous businesses, organisations and residents located within the area.

"It is our duty to preserve and maintain it. To the naked eye, the cathedral looks in superb condition.

"But if you climb up onto the roof and see the north transept up close, that is not the case. "It is vital that we carry out this repair work as soon as possible.

"We have been lucky enough to receive a large chunk of funding already but unless we secure more, we could end up losing all of that."

If you are able to help the restoration project in any way, call the cathedral on (01353) 667735.

IT wasn't long ago that millions of pounds were spent on refurbishing Ely Cathedral after it was discovered the building was at crisis point.

Dubbed the 'Great Restoration', it started in 1986 when surveyors said the roofs, timber and stonework of the majority of the cathedral were becoming unsafe. As a result, a major fundraising campaign and public appeal was launched. Thanks to generous locals and readers of the Weekly News, an impressive £4 million was raised and the cathedral was given a new lease of life, saving its doors from being closed for good.

Following that, in 1991, a major 10-year programme of restoration was drawn up by experts, embracing stonework, timber, glass and lead at a cost of £8 million.

Donations have been received from a wide range of benefactors and trusts and over the last six years, the cathedral has been grant aided by English Heritage.

However, a guaranteed income of £500,000 is still needed each year from voluntary contributions if the future of the cathedral is to be secured.

The Great Restoration was completed in 2000. In 1989, the 21st Century Fund was launched – an endowment fund to finance running repairs from the year 2000 onwards.

Magistrates log onto web

MAGISTRATES in Cambridgeshire have set up their own website to tell people about what they do.

A spokesman for the magistrates said: "This year is the 650th anniversary of the formation of the magistracy and we thought that it was probably time to embrace new technology and set up our own website to increase public awareness of the role of magistrates within the county."

The website contains information about the courts in the area and what being a magistrate entails.

It's curtains for dancers

CHATTERIS-based theatre drapes manufacturer Cameo Curtains Ltd has secured a prestigious contract to supply The Royal Academy of Dance (RAD) with new drapes for its training school in London.

Soames Springthorpe, the firm's sales director, said: "With Her Majesty the Queen as patron of the academy and companies from all over Europe vying for the work, we are delighted that RAD recognised Cameo's culture of quality, commitment and professionalism to place the order with us." Cameo Curtains is based on the South Fens Business Centre.

Make date for church lunch

CONGREGATION members of Ely Cathedral are being invited to lunch. The cathedral's dean and chapter will join members after Sunday's Eucharist on for a lunch. The lunch will be followed by the AGM, which will begin at noon in the south transept. To reserve a space, or for more information, call Frances Ascroft-Walker on (01353) 660309 or email fascroft-walker@cely.cathedral.ely.anglican.org

Toilet plans steam ahead

A TOURIST attraction could soon boast a new disabled toilet. The trustees of Strettham Old Engine have applied for planning permission to make alterations to a store at the engine to provide a disabled toilet. They also want to build a new brick path. A planning application has been submitted to East Cambridgeshire District Council.

Council rejects bid for 24m turbine to run industrial unit

A BUSINESSMAN'S hopes of making his company more eco-friendly have been dashed.

Councillors have refused plans for a 24.9m (82ft) wind turbine to be built on the Lancaster Way Business Park in Ely.

Mr J Salmon, owner of Michell Instruments, on the business park, had applied for planning permission to erect a turbine outside his business.

He wanted to use it to generate sustainable power for an extension at the unit, for which he recently gained planning permission.

However, members of East Cambridgeshire District Council's planning committee have refused the application.

In a report presented to members, case officer

Lucie Turnell said the turbine would be "inappropriate" because of its proximity to nearby Lancaster Lodge.

The report said: "As a matter of principle, the proposed wind turbine is considered to be compatible with the existing uses.

"However, the proposed site is within approximately 70 metres (230ft) of Lancaster Lodge, a residential property that comprises a separate planning unit and which lies beyond the business park's northern boundary.

"Clearly, every support should be given to measures that reduce carbon emissions but this does not absolve those proposing schemes from doing so in a responsible and cohesive manner."

The City of Ely Council had expressed no concerns about the turbine and the district council had received no letters of objection.

But Witchford Parish Council was worried and said the turbine would be too close to Lancaster Lodge.

Concerns had also been raised about whether the turbine would affect people's views of Ely Cathedral. However, the planning report said: "The site lies approximately 2.6km (1.6 miles) to the south-west of Ely Cathedral.

"Direct views of the cathedral and the wind turbine would therefore only be possible from within the park itself."

Mr Salmon was unavailable for comment.

Mains water burst

SCHOOLS, businesses and homes in Witchford came to a standstill on Monday morning after a water main burst in the village.

Witchford Village College, the village's Rackham Primary School, pre-schools and shops were closed and hundreds of people were left without water.

The problem was first reported to Anglian Water at 5.30am.

Engineers were sent out and located a burst pipe near to Church View. A spokesman for Anglian Water said:

"Our team of engineers located the problem and worked hard to re-route water back into people's properties."

"The water was back on just after 9.30am."

"The problems were caused by a burst pipe at the rear of Church View."

"We would like to apologise for any inconvenience this caused."

New foot health firm

A WOMAN has bounced back from redundancy to set up her own business treating foot health problems.

Susan Murray, of Prickwillow Road, Ely, lost her job with the closure of Cambridgeshire Enterprise Services in 2009 and decided on a complete career change.

For the past 18 months, she has been studying and training to become a foot health practitioner and now has her own surgery at her home.

Mrs Murray said: "I knew that with an ageing population and the growth of illnesses such as diabetes there was an ever greater need for foot health professionals."

Royal Anglians honoured with freedom of city

THE Royal Anglian Regiment was honoured in Ely yesterday when it was awarded the freedom of the city.

The regiment received an updated scroll at a special ceremony to reaffirm close links with the community.

Before the presentation, more than 500 people assembled in Ely Cathedral at 2pm for a service to commemorate the lives of soldiers of the East Anglian and Royal Anglian Regiments which have been lost since 1945.

A parade then marched towards Cross Green and a salute was taken.

John Yates, mayor of Ely, presented the scroll to the regiment at the Hayward Theatre at 4pm.

Cambridgeshire Army Cadet Force Corps of Drums gave a performance outside the theatre to conclude the day.

Cllr Yates said he was proud to be part of Ely's history on a memorable day. He said: "It was a very enjoyable occasion and I think what was demonstrated was that Ely people were extremely proud of the Royal Anglian Regiment."

"I was honoured to give the regiment the freedom of the city and to present the scroll to General Sir John McColl. The cathedral was packed and it was a great occasion."

Preaching at the service in Ely Cathedral, Bishop Stephen urged people to remember "all women and men from Cambridgeshire who have given their lives in the service of their country and for the sake of peace around the world" over many generations.

He said: "The majority of people who have died in Iraq and Afghanistan have been under the age of 30, indeed under 25."

"We take young people largely for whom the public service is the most promising route out of tough situations and ally their courage and ingenuity with concentrated training and deploy them to defend the peace of the world."

Bishop's fear for rural poor

THE Bishop of Ely has reacted to David Cameron's Big Society notion by saying he is concerned for poor people living in market towns.

The Rt Rev Stephen Conway told his Diocesan Synod yesterday that "demonising the poor to save money is a cynical abuse of power", as he reflected on last week's debate between the Archbishop of Canterbury and the coalition Government.

He told Synod members at Witchford Community College that "the Prime Minister was the first to assert the right of the Archbishop of Canterbury to articulate the fear which many people have about the future of our public services".

Bishop Stephen told the gathering: "We are properly concerned about how poor people living in our market towns, let alone in the deep countryside, will be able to access jobs via public transport."

"I know senior officers and political leaders of our local authorities are working very hard to ensure services are sustained for those in real need. We need to be vigilant as well as co-operative citizens."

He added: "Mr Cameron was right that we need to take up the opportunities to identify the importance of social capital in our economic future and throw ourselves into the running of a generous society."

Drought is confirmed

BY JORDAN DAY

Email: editorial@elyweeklynews.co.uk

EAST Cambridgeshire is now officially in a state of drought after the extremely dry spring, it has been confirmed.

And the Bishop of Ely, Stephen Conway, is urging people to use as little water as possible.

The Department for Environment, Food and Rural Affairs (Defra) said areas in the Anglian region are suffering from drought while parts of the South West, South East, Midlands and Wales are experiencing near-drought conditions.

The South East and central southern England experienced their driest spring on record, while across the whole of England and Wales it has been the driest spring since 1990.

In the drought-affected areas, Anglian Water and Cambridge Water have said there is no threat to the public water supply, as they have enough to get through the summer, according to the Environment Agency.

But no threat for summer to public water supplies

Environment Secretary Caroline Spelman said: "Drought has hit parts of East Anglia, with other areas also giving grounds for concern."

"Water companies are confident that supplies are high enough so that widespread restrictions to the public are unlikely."

"We're doing all we can to reduce the impact on agriculture and wildlife, but everyone can play their part."

"Everyone can do their bit to use water more wisely, not only through the summer, but throughout the year."

Bishop Stephen says people should not take the gift of water for granted.

He said: "We generally take water for granted in our green and pleasant land. Fresh water is perhaps the most precious natural resource available to us."

"We must start regarding it as a gift from God and not as a commodity."

"Access to clean water is denied to 1.1 billion poor people across the world."

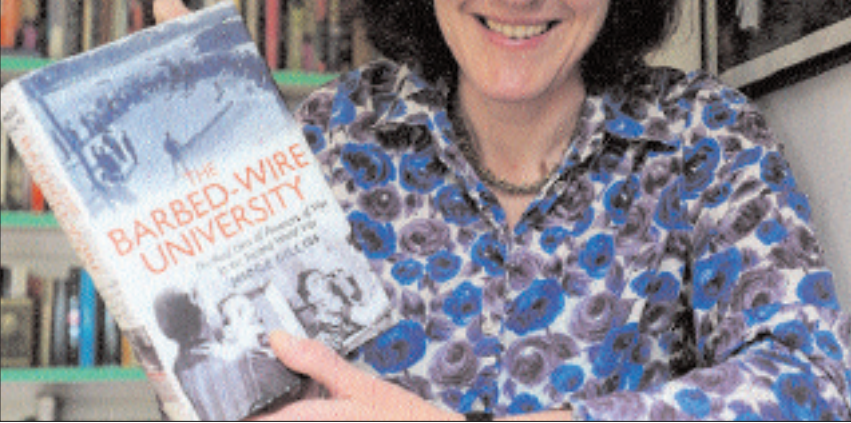

"We need to be more grateful for what we receive and to be much more conscious of the need to collect rainwater."

He added: "The Fens are particularly affected, worse affected, indeed, than other parts of the region."

"Farmers who have irrigation technology are not affected at the moment but farmers who do not are in a bad way and need our prayers and concern."

"Donations to farmers' charities will help a lot in the coming months."

Stories of PoW survival

PoW focus: Midge Gillies with her new book.

AN author has revealed the hidden lives of prisoners of war during the Second World War.

The Barbed-Wire University is the latest book by Midge Gillies, of Ely.

Mrs Gillies, whose own father was a PoW, interviewed ex-prisoners to uncover stories about what life was really like in the prison camps.

She said: "Prisoners displayed amazing ingenuity and determination to turn their camp into a hive of activity. They used Red Cross parcels to make musical instruments, cooking utensils, even holes for a golf course.

"The book certainly redefines our picture of the camps and renews our admiration for the men who survived them."

It is out now, priced £25.

Deer hurt wedged in a gate

A DEER had to be rescued by the RSPCA after it got stuck in a gate.

The young male Muntjac deer became wedged between the railings of a garden gate at the rear of a property in Bohemond Street, Ely.

The RSPCA were called to the incident just before noon on Tuesday.

Inspector Richard Lythgoe used a car jack to widen the railings before lifting the deer out from between them.

The animal had wounds towards its rear end but Mr Lythgoe is hopeful it will survive.

He said: "Muntjac deer are quite hardy animals so fingers crossed it'll be okay and will be able to be released."

Green venture to drop energy bills

TWO businessmen are joining forces to help homeowners reduce their carbon emissions and energy costs.

Ely entrepreneurs Peter Dawe and Peter Bates have set up a new business called The 80percent Company.

With gas and electricity costs continuing to rise, they want to research and develop new energy-saving solutions for homes and other buildings.

Focusing initially on heat loss from windows, they need people willing to allow them into their homes to better understand where heat loss occurs.

They are particularly interested in houses which have single-glazed windows.

Mr Bates said: "Home energy use in the UK produces 27 per cent of all carbon emissions.

"There can be 15-25 per cent heat loss from windows.

"The 80percent Company is developing solutions that tackle this problem for all households, but particularly for older dwellings in conservation areas where it might not be considered appropriate to replace with double glazing."

Mr Dawe is a serial entrepreneur having founded more than 80 companies, including Pipex, the UK's first commercial internet service provider.

BY JORDAN DAY

Mr Bates has more than 20 years' experience of working with innovative solutions.

Mr Dawe said: "Although still going through parliament, by Autumn 2012 the Government will be offering a new energy-saving package through The Green Deal.

"This should enable households to buy energy-saving solutions and pay for them through their utility bills which will be reduced due to the savings made.

"This is all part of the Government proposals to cut greenhouse emissions by 50 per cent by 2025 and 80 per cent by the year 2050 compared to 1990 levels.

"This can only be achieved by taking a multi-visionary approach by addressing both the sources of emissions and a reduction of carbon-based energy resources through their more efficient usage."

If you are willing to allow Mr Dawe or Mr Bates into your home to better understand heat loss from windows, call (01353) 667973 or email peter@the80percentcompany.com.

In fair Verona, Romeo and Juliet . . . went to the pub!

SHAKESPEARE'S beautiful and touching tragedy, Romeo and Juliet, is coming to a pub in Ely.

The Ely Amateur Dramatic Society (ADS) will be performing the famous story of star-crossed lovers as its annual outdoor production.

And members have chosen the gardens of the Prince Albert pub in Silver Street to stage it.

The performances will be held for four nights running from Wednesday, June 29 to Saturday, July 2.

A spokesman for the Ely ADS said: "We are presenting Romeo and Juliet as our annual outdoor production.

"This classic love story involves the feud between the Capulets and the Montagues and ours is being set in contemporary times with stylised music from the 1980s.

"This production is being presented by well-known local directors Michael Holland and Fiona Gilbert.

"A strong local cast has been assembled, including Darren Smith, Peter Clyne, Sue Harrison, Jess Garrett, Edward Cearn, Rob Myson and introducing Daniel Flood as Romeo and Sarah Diss as Juliet.

"We are also introducing new young cast members including David Mullenger, Zack Hornback, Adam Hebbard and Lee Halls."

The performances will start at 7.30pm each night.

Tickets are £7 for adults and £5 for concessions and food will be available at the pub prior to each performance.

Tickets are available now by visiting Burrows Bookshop in Ely's High Street Passage or by calling (01353) 669759.

STAGE DEBUT: newcomer Daniel Flood stars as Romeo and Sarah Diss makes her debut as Juliet in the Ely Amateur Dramatic Society's latest production, which will be set in the gardens of the Prince Albert pub.

Big brassy weekends

SOHAM Comrades Brass Band kick off proceedings on Sunday with some rousing tunes at Cherry Hinton Hall Park.

They'll be followed by Waterbeach Brass (July 3) and Cottenham Brass (September 25) at the same venue.

Meanwhile, relax by the river to the sound of Caxton Swing (July 17), Cam River Jazz Band (August 7) and Freddie & Friends New Orleans Jazz Band (September 4), who will all be playing on Jesus Green, Cambridge.

All performances run from 3pm until 5pm.

STILL GOING STRONG: Wicken Brass Band celebrated its centenary last weekend.

Park picnic... with a band!

SAFFRON Walden Town Band will be delighting the crowds in Ely on Sunday.

They will be taking to the bandstand in Jubilee Gardens as part of the Summer Riverside Concert programme. The concert will run from 2.30-4.30pm and families are invited to picnic in the gardens whilst enjoying the performance.

Band blows its own horn to mark 100 years of brass

WICKEN Brass Band marked its milestone 100th anniversary at the weekend with a whole host of celebrations.

On Friday, people flocked to Victoria Hall in Fordham for a special centenary concert.

Glenn Thomas, who joined the band in February this year, conducted.

On Saturday, the band held a party in Wicken for past and present players and conductors.

There was also an exhibition inside Wicken Mission Hall showcasing the amazing history of the band and villagers were served cream teas and refreshments.

Laurence Finlayson, the band's president, said: "We had a marvellous weekend. "We'd like to thank everyone for their support and we look forward to performing for many more years to come."

For more information about the band, call Mr Finlayson on (01353) 721863.

Amazing Ark scoops prizes

Rock on with the Fen Boys

MUCH-loved blues and rock 'n' roll band, Fen Boy 3, are performing in Fordham on Sunday.

They will be entertaining the crowds at The Chequers from 7.30pm onwards. Admission is free.

THERE are celebrations all round at the Soham-based Viva Theatre Company.

The award-winning dramatic society has returned from the prestigious Haverhill Drama Festival with four awards out of the five categories they entered.

BY JORDAN DAY

Their play, The Ark, won best show and best stage production.

Esther Hillier, who plays Agnes, also won best actress and its director, Sarah Dowd-Crosby, won best director.

Mrs Dowd-Crosby said: "This was a well-deserved accolade for the group, who pulled together in less than four weeks to put on the show.

"All our members are incredibly committed – whether they are on the stage or off and it's as a group we have won these fantastic awards.

"I would like to congratulate the cast for all their hard work."

To celebrate their success, the society will hold a barbecue at The Ship pub in Soham on Sunday from 2-5pm.

Anyone interested in joining – either as an actor, director or backstage help – is welcome.

The big film

KUNG FU PANDA 2
certificate PG 90m

PREPARE for the return of awesomeness in this energetic martial arts comedy which kicks computer-animated butt and comes close to matching the rumbustious fun of the 2008 original.

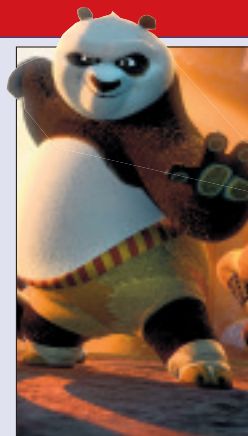

Screenwriters Jonathan Aibel and Glenn Berger flashback to overweight panda Po's tortured past as the inspiration for this tale of identity and retribution, taking the story into far darker territory.

However, Jack Black's whirlwind vocal performance provides a generous smattering of belly laughs and the visuals are gorgeous and colourful.

The introduction of the 3D format almost warrants the additional ticket price, adding depth to the gorgeous rolling landscapes of ancient China.

Younger audiences will get just as much fun though from the traditional 2D version without the discomfort or distraction of the plastic spectacles.

Overweight panda Po (voiced by Black) is living his dream as an all-action bear, honing his skills under the watchful eye of mentor Shifu (Dustin Hoffman).

However, he is haunted by fragmented memories, which eventually reveal how his father came to be a goose called Mr Ping (James Wong). It transpires an evil peacock Lord Shen (Gary Oldman) is the cause of Po's deep emotional wounds.

Spurred on by a dire warning about pandas from an elderly soothsayer (Michelle Yeoh), Shen and his army of snarling wolves are on a collision course with Po, armed with a deadly weapon that could bring China to its knees. Thankfully, Po can always rely on The Furious Five – Crane (David Cross), Mantis (Seth Rogen), Monkey (Jackie Chan), Tigress (Angelina Jolie) and Viper (Lucy Liu) – to avert disaster.

Kung Fu Panda 2 relies heavily on Black to unleash his verbal fireworks and to continue sparking potential romance with Jolie's kung fu kitty.

Hoffman's comic timing is impeccable and Oldman delivers his lines in suitably Machiavellian tones.

The action sequences are more complex but still fall short of the intricacy of Pixar's most recent pictures.

Hopefully DreamWorks Animation will have learned lessons about animated sequels from Shrek, which dazzled us in its original incarnation but became a creatively empty husk by Shrek Forever After.

Alas, the feel-good revelations at the end of Kung Fu Panda 2 suggest as long as box office tills ring, there will be more chapters in Po's journey of self-discovery.

Heavenly herbs for summer

Herbs create the tastes of summer – basil torn over juicy, mouth-watering tomatoes, dill added to simple fish dishes, chicken stuffed with thyme, coriander added to zingy salsas, mint and parsley chopped up in tabbouleh and other salad dishes.

So many herbs and so little space, those with small gardens might say, but there is always room for a pot or two or even a windowbox of aromatic, flavoursome herbs which will enhance your menus whatever the time of year.

Many exhibitors at this year's gardening shows are of the same

by Hannah Stephenson

opinion. At the forthcoming BBC Gardeners' World Live at Birmingham's NEC, for example, a new Edible Patches section seeks to display innovative ways of growing edible plants in a small space measuring 1.5m x 2.5m – and herbs are right up there with lettuces, chard and spinach.

The unusually hot weather we've had in April and May will have given some herbs a head start. Many herbs thrive in sunnier climates including thyme, rosemary and basil, which historically hasn't grown very well in this country because our summers have been too cool.

Mint grows virtually anywhere, but if you are creating a herb garden, grow it in a pot or it will invade everything else in its path.

If you want your herb garden to look more formal, consider planting dwarf hedges of rosemary or lavender around the edges, or to divide beds. Lavender can simply be sheared after flowering to keep it looking neat and tidy, but don't cut into old wood or it won't grow back.

Standard bays placed in pots either side of a front door or other entrance can create a formal, stylish look and you can also snip the leaves off for adding to pasta sauces and casseroles.

When designing your herb garden, remember that prostrate varieties such as Corsican mint, many thymes and marjorams form mats of pretty foliage to cascade over edges and fill gaps in paving.

And don't think you have to reserve a whole plot just for herbs. You can interplant them in your border to add colour and texture. Clumps of chives, which produce pretty purple flower balls, and sage, with its subtle leaf colours, are ideal for this.

Rock gardens, with gritty, well-drained soil, are also a perfect setting for low-growing herbs such as thyme, of which there are endless varieties, many of which have variegated leaves and produce small flowers in summer.

Basil, which tastes so much better if you grow it yourself than if you buy it from the supermarket, is a tender annual used in much Mediterranean cooking and loves the sunshine. It's best sown into seed trays or modules in a greenhouse and then hardened off and transplanted into a sheltered, sunny spot when all danger of frost has passed.

It does well in pots on sun-baked patios but should be watered whenever dry and the growing tips pinched out regularly to encourage bushy growth and delay flowering. If you are using it, harvest the leaves at the tip of the plant to encourage further bushy growth at the sides.

Sweet basil and bush basil are the common types grown, but you could also try cinnamon basil, anise basil and lemon basil.

Flat-leaf parsley is much more popular these days than the curly-leaf variety because of its more intense flavour. Usually grown as an annual, it can be sown thinly outdoors in rich, moist soil in late spring and again in late summer for succession over winter. Try Giant Italian for good flavour.

Perennials including chives, sorrel, fennel and mint should come up year after year. Annual herbs which need to be raised from seed each year include dill, coriander, chervil and borage. These are best germinated in a greenhouse in spring.

The majority of herbs thrive in sunny, sheltered spots. If you only have a semi-shaded spot available, try growing scented lemon balm, which can be used to flavour sauces for chicken and fish, lovage, a hardy perennial which has a flavour similar to celery, and angelica, a giant herb growing to several metres which can be used to flavour cakes and cooked fruit.

SMELLS OF SUMMER: herbs can be grown in even the smallest of spaces. Basil, left, can be difficult to grow in this country but tastes so much better than the store-bought variety.

YOUR GUIDE TO MOVING HOME

1 Moving home can be a complicated business and, in the hectic run to the big day, it is all too easy to forget something vital. The Property News offers their readers this handy checklist that should help avoid major pitfalls. We suggest you tick off the items as you deal with them...

WITH FOUR WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Get estimates from removal companies, checking that comprehensive insurance cover is available against damage or loss. Is there a packing and unpacking service? Confirm the date of your move with the firm you have chosen.
- ☐ Check on your home contents insurance policies to ensure that you are covered for the move, and covered at your new address.
- ☐ Make arrangements for your gas and electricity meters (plus water meters where relevant) to be read and all your appliances to be disconnected on the day of your move.
- ☐ Arrange to take over gas and electricity at your new address, and make sure that all appliances will be properly fitted, plumbed or connected.
- ☐ Notify British Telecom and ask them to make the necessary arrangements for a final account at your present address, and for taking over or installing telephone facilities at your new home.
- ☐ Arrange for change of address cards to be printed.

WITH TWO WEEKS TO GO:

- ☐ Confirm all arrangements, times etc, for meter readings, disconnections and reconnections, with authorities and with your buyer and seller.
- ☐ Make sure you have a good stock of packing materials, including sturdy boxes and plenty of string and sticky tape.
- ☐ Begin to throw out unwanted items from attics, wardrobes. What you really don't want you may as well dump now, or send to charity. It's a great time for a good sort out!

WITH ONE WEEK TO GO:

- ☐ Send off change of address cards.
- ☐ Arrange and pay for automatic redirection of your mail by the Post Office.
- ☐ Cancel and pay up accounts for routine delivery services such as milk, groceries, fuel and your Cambridge Evening News. Re-organise these deliveries for your new address.
- ☐ Defrost refrigerators in preparation for move and, if you are moving a freezer and its contents, turn it up to maximum for a couple of days before you move.

WITH ONE DAY TO GO:

- ☐ Complete your packing except for those items you are likely to need overnight, and prepare a picnic for moving day.
- ☐ Have a large enough cash 'float' available to deal with unexpected expenses, and make sure you have collected documents and valuables together in a safe place.
- ☐ Cover carpets which are being left behind, so as to minimise damage during furniture removal.
- ☐ Check through previous lists to make sure nothing has been overlooked, then enjoy a worry-free early night!

2 ON MOVING DAY:

- ☐ Strip beds and pack bedding and nightclothes.
- ☐ Pack items for washing/toiletries.
- ☐ Take down curtains.
- ☐ Take up rugs, carpets, floor coverings, as required.
- ☐ Dismantle any light fittings etc., not included in the sale.
- ☐ Turn off electric appliances.
- ☐ Disconnect cooker.
- ☐ Turn off boiler/central heating.
- ☐ Turn off water.
- ☐ Read gas meter.
- ☐ Read electricity meter.
- ☐ Secure all windows.
- ☐ Lock all doors.
- ☐ Leave key as arranged with new owners.
- ☐ On arrival at your new home, unpack slowly and methodically so that you can check for loss or damage.

3 EXTRA HINTS FOR A SMOOTH MOVE...

WHO TO NOTIFY:

- ☐ Banks.
- ☐ Building Societies.
- ☐ Credit companies.
- ☐ Insurance companies.
- ☐ Gas, Electricity and Water Boards.
- ☐ Telephone company.
- ☐ Local Authority (Rating Department).
- ☐ Driving Licence authorities.
- ☐ Inland Revenue.
- ☐ Store cards and accounts.
- ☐ Other lease, hire or rental companies.
- ☐ Employer.
- ☐ Doctor.
- ☐ Dentist.
- ☐ Schools.
- ☐ Professional Bodies/Trade Unions.
- ☐ Motoring organisations.
- ☐ Newsagent.
- ☐ Friends and relatives.

Excellence through Experience

Large, elegant former surgery built circa 1730

SET in the heart of Soham, on the High Street, this imposing, Grade II* listed residence was formerly a doctor's house and surgery.

The property dates from around 1730 and offers beautiful, extensive accommodation.

This includes an entrance hall, cloakroom, kitchen/family room with walk-in larder, a dining room, drawing room, study, three first-floor bedrooms, a bathroom and en suite.

The second floor could be used as a separate flat or annexe, and comes with a kitchenette, bathroom and two further bedrooms.

Outside, a driveway provides off-road parking and leads to a garage. There is also a separate outbuilding, workshop and games room/office.

The gardens are a fantastic feature and encompass a large lawn which is walled and bordered by extensive flowerbeds.

This handsome home is on the market for £650,000. For information, contact Cheffins on (01353) 654900.

Two Counties Motor Show tickets on sale

TICKETS for the Two Counties Motor Show are now on sale at Catherine Jones Jewellery and News offices throughout the region.

Priced at £5 for adults and £2 for children aged 12-16 (under-12s are free), there is a family ticket option (two adults and two children for the price of two adults) available from the News and HeartFM as well.

Tickets can be bought at the News' Market Place premises in Ely and offices in Milton, St Neots, Haverhill, Saffron Walden, Newmarket and Royston.

UK first: For the Vauxhall Astra GTC.

Money raised from the Two Counties Motor Show goes towards good causes – this year it is the Alzheimer's Society and Centre 33 Cambridge.

Last year it was Teenage Cancer Trust among others.

Ticket holders are set to enjoy a spectacular event which includes the first UK showing for Vauxhall's Astra GTC (see page 46 for details). At purchase each attendee is also automatically entered for a prize draw to win prizes including:

- A Fortis B-42 Black Mars 500 wrist watch sponsored by Catherine Jones Jewellery of Cambridge (www.catherinejones.com)
- Two pairs of tickets for The Wanted at Newmarket Nights on Friday, July 29, as sponsored by Newmarket Racecourses (www.newmarketracecourses.co.uk)

- An adult mountain bike, sponsored by Drive Vauxhall Bury St Edmunds (www.drivevauxhall.co.uk)

- A five-day family pass to David Lloyd Leisure sponsored by Turner's Toyota Cambridge (www.cambridge.toyota.co.uk).

Go to www.cambridge-news.co.uk for full details of the event which takes place on Sunday, June 26.

Mini Coupe is a 'shot in the arm'

MINI is expanding its product family with the launch of a Coupe geared squarely to maximising driving fun.

The first two-seater in its line-up sees Mini not only breathe new life into its successful racing history but also provide a shot in the arm for the super-compact sports car class. The Mini Coupe's engines, chassis set-up, weight distribution and aerodynamic properties all radiate the brand's hallmark go-kart feeling with a whole new depth of intensity to achieve the best performance statistics ever recorded by a volume-produced Mini.

The Mini Coupe can be ordered with the most powerful petrol and diesel engines in the brand's arsenal. Outputs range from the 122bhp of the Mini Cooper Coupe, to the Mini Cooper SD Coupe (143bhp) and Mini Cooper S Coupe (184bhp), all the way up to the Mini John Cooper Works Coupe, a thoroughbred athlete producing 211bhp.

With its distinctive "helmet roof", optimised aerodynamics and impressive storage space, the Mini Coupe is set to offer "outstanding versatility in day-to-day driving, when transporting leisure items or sports gear, and on trips out with a lucky partner".

Due later this summer, the Mini Coupe is sure to be a welcome addition to Elms Cambridge's new purpose-built £8.5 million showroom in Cambourne.

Pricing and other details will be made available in due course.

Vauxhall Astra GTC ready for the road

THIS is one of the first official shots of the new Astra GTC, which will lay down the gauntlet to VW's Scirocco and Renault's Mégane Coupe as order books open at Vauxhall retailers this week.

Closely based on last year's stunning GTC Paris concept, the production Astra GTC enters the UK market – the biggest in Europe for this model – priced from £18,495, nearly £1,100 less than the basic VW Scirocco. But even in entry-level trim, the Astra GTC adopts the sophisticated front suspension from the Insignia VXR, featuring Vauxhall's HiPerStrut (High Performance Strut), combined with the Watt's link rear axle for unmatched stability and handling precision.

The Astra GTC can be ordered with a choice of four engines – one diesel and three petrols.

With 162bhp, the 2.0 CDTi is an upgraded version of the diesel that's fitted to some models in the Insignia and Astra ranges. All engines have a diesel particulate filter, six-speed transmission and Start/Stop as standard. Delivering 380Nm of torque (including overboost function) the 2.0 CDTi engine provides excellent mid-range acceleration and a 0-62mph time of 8.9 seconds and a top speed of 130mph.

That torque also allows the GTC a relaxed cruising gait, meaning a combined mpg of 57.6mpg and CO2 emissions of just 129g/km.

Start/Stop and a six-speed gearbox are also standard on both versions of the 1.4-litre Turbo petrol engine. With either 116bhp or 136bhp, the 1.4T achieves a combined 47.9mpg and 139g/km of CO2 emissions.

The most powerful engine in the range is the 1.6-litre Turbo, which produces 176bhp and allows the GTC to hit a top speed of 132mph. ■ Vauxhall's new Astra GTC will make a surprise debut at this year's Two Counties Motor Show on June 26, followed by an appearance at the Goodwood Festival of Speed – more than two months ahead of its official world premiere at the Frankfurt Motor Show.

Making a strong impression: The Vauxhall Astra GTC.

B-Max's 1.0-litre three-cylinder unit is the smallest engine Ford has ever built Smallest engine: The Ford B-Max.

FORD is expanding its industry-leading range of fuel-efficient powertrains with the addition of an all-new 1.0-litre EcoBoost three-cylinder, developed in Europe – the smallest engine Ford has ever built.

Additionally Ford confirms that its next generation of hybrid vehicles, including the C-Max in 2013, will have a Ford-designed, engineered and built transmission.

"In the last five years, we have made a record investment in new powertrains and fuel-saving technologies," said Derrick Kuzak, Ford's group vice president of Global Product Development. "Today we have the freshest powertrain line-up in the industry. And there is plenty more coming."

The new engine has already been confirmed for the new Ford B-Max, which goes on sale in the UK during 2012, and is also destined for global applications on a number of the company's other small cars.

Technically advanced, the new EcoBoost 1.0-litre is a super-efficient three-cylinder engine that delivers the same performance as a four-cylinder, but with much higher fuel economy and lower emissions.

The engineers at Dunton, Essex, Ford's global centre for small-capacity engines, focused on improving thermal efficiency and reducing friction of the engine's internal moving parts, especially during warm-up.

That is when an engine emits higher levels of CO2 and other pollutants. The new engine introduces technologies that will be part of the DNA of future Ford engines.

Volkswagen adds new BlueMotion to Passat range (68.9mpg, 109g/km)

A STANDARD production Passat BlueMotion entered the record books in October 2010 after covering a distance of 1,527.63 miles on a single tank of fuel, achieving an average 89.83mpg.

Not wanting to rest on the laurels of the previous generation, Volkswagen has now added a BlueMotion model to the seventh-generation Passat range which is even more efficient. Prices start at £19,875 for the saloon and rise to £21,180 for the estate.

Launched in January this year, the latest standard Passat and Passat Estate exceeded the fuel economy figures of the outgoing BlueMotion models, and this latest BlueMotion model, which was revealed at the Geneva Motor Show in March, raises the bar even further.

At the heart of the Passat BlueMotion is a modified version of Volkswagen's efficient 1.6-litre common rail TDI engine developing 102bhp, coupled to a six-speed manual gearbox.

In addition to the Stop/Start and battery regeneration systems which already feature on the BlueMotion Technology models, the latest addition to the BlueMotion range includes further modifications to improve aerodynamics and reduce drag. These include low rolling resistance tyres, suspension lowered by 15mm at the front and 7.5mm at the rear, plus a revised radiator grille and underbody panel to minimise drag. The saloon is also fitted with a compact rear spoiler.

Lightweight and aerodynamic 16-inch steel rims are fitted as standard, while exclusive 17in 'Buenos Aires' alloy wheels are also available as an option.

These modifications result in an expected average combined fuel consumption of 68.9mpg for the saloon and 65.7mpg for the estate, while CO₂ emissions of 109g/km for the Passat, and 113g/km for the Passat Estate, put them into VED bands B and C respectively.

Despite these efficiency measures, the car remains spacious, comfortable, safe and refined.

With a premium of just £220 over the S trim models on which they are based, all BlueMotion variants are also well equipped, featuring curtain airbags, ESP, 'Climatic' air conditioning, electric windows, electronic parking brake, RCD 310 radio /CD player and Multi Device Interface (MDI) with iPod connectivity.

Items such as the fatigue detection system with cruise control, Park Assist II and High Beam Assist are also available as options.

The new Passat and Passat Estate BlueMotion are available to order now, with first examples arriving in showrooms towards the end of July.

Raising the bar: Volkswagen's new Passat BlueMotion.

Is fuel market manipulated by speculators?

WITH the summer break just around the corner the thoughts of deserted roads and queue-free commutes are appealing, but they are surely offset by the prospect of long treks to holiday destinations, writes Matt Joy of PA News.

A car loaded to the gills with children, luggage and the essential beach paraphernalia is not only short on space but heavy on fuel – the worst possible situation with petrol prices high.

But while the Government remains quiet on the subject, the swell of disquiet is finally leading several key organisations to take action.

Motoring groups across Europe have demanded the European Union launch an investigation into soaring petrol prices.

The Federation Nationale de l'Automobile

(FIA), which represents 35 million drivers and counts both the AA and RAC as members, has written to the EU claiming the way prices are determined is "far from transparent".

UK petrol prices hit record levels in April as the wholesale price of oil soared, but have been much slower to come down as the price of crude oil dropped back again. A full tank for an average European car now costs around £10 more than it did a year ago.

The FIA letter calls for an inquiry into how benchmark prices are set on the Rotterdam spot market, where cargoes of petrol and diesel for the European market are bought and sold.

Werner Krauss, chairman of the FIA

Eurocouncil, said in the letter: "A platform with such a small volume is doubted to be a representative indicator for the vast EU market."

Mr Krauss also wants the EU to look into the role of speculation on oil prices, adding that the FIA is very concerned about the "resulting volatility in fuel prices and negative financial impact on consumers".

Luke Bosdet, of the AA, said: "No one is giving us any answers as to why petrol prices are so high. We need greater transparency so that everyone can see we are paying a fair price."

The AA wants to see an independent regulator to balance the interests of the supplier, retailer and customer.

» Rowing

A Star-ring role for Isle rowers

JUNIOR members of the Isle of Ely Rowing Club had a very busy and successful day of racing at Star Regatta in Bedford at the weekend.

Competing in the women's junior 15 single sculls, double sculls and quadruple sculls events and also the men's junior 17 single sculls, the entire Isle of Ely race squad was successful in earning places in their respective finals.

Laura Sibson (stroke), Phoebe Bradbury and Libby Milne (bow) teamed up with Izzy Gibson from Norwich Rowing Club to compete in the WJ15 quadruple sculls, a combination which worked well for the crew at the Inter Regional Regatta earlier in the year.

With cox Ellen Bridges from the Isle club shouting instructions and encouragement, the girls faced a tough race in the final after cruising to victory in their heat against St Edwards School.

Winner: Isle J17 single sculler Adam Hughes with his winner's medal at Star Regatta in Bedford.

Opposition from Bedford High School in the final proved much tougher and the bows of the two boats were neck and neck as they emerged from under the arches of the Bedford town bridge half way down the 1,200m course.

But the Ely/Norwich composite crew dug deep and recovered strongly after a mishap in the final third of the course when one of the scullers momentarily lost hold of her blade.

Spurred on by cheering supporters on the bank, the Ely/Norwich crew crossed the finishing line one length, ahead of Bedford High School.

"All the girls had recently raced in their respective double and single sculling finals and were tired from a full day of demanding racers," said Isle coach Victor Bridges said. "So it was especially pleasing to clinch this victory in the quadruple scull."

For the junior boys, Adam Hughes competed in the J17 single sculls event, facing opposition from two scullers from the Bedford-based Star Club.

Adams easily beat his opponent in the first round to reach the final at the end of the afternoon.

Adams made the final more difficult by taking a poor racing line through the bridge, steering badly and wasting valuable seconds.

However, his superior strength and sculling ability won the day and Hughes crossed the finishing line two lengths ahead of his opponent.

"I should have done better and could have won with a bigger margin, but I've no excuses," commented Hughes after collecting his winner's medal.

» Cricket round-up

Travers is in the runs as Ely triumph with ease

BEN Travers smashed an unbeaten 71 in City of Ely's 77-run Cricket Stick CCA Senior League, Division Two victory at Girton on Saturday.

Opener Jonny Wallace hit 40 before Travers' knock saw the visitors set a target of 186 for 6.

In reply, Tony Thornton struck 50, but Oliver Sellers claimed 3 for 29 and Andrew Zajac 3 for 34 as Girton were bowled out for 109.

In Division Three, Conner Cunningham smacked an unbeaten 84 to keep Chatteris top following their seven-wicket victory at struggling Isleham.

Joe Menarry took 3 for 22 and Dom Platt 3 for 38 as Isleham finished with 163 for 9.

In response, Cunningham was supported by Pete Munns (37 not out) as they reached 164 for 3. A feature of the Chatteris innings was to see if Cunningham's older brother Kurt would lose his wicket for only the second time this season and make a sixth consecutive score of 50 or more, but he was very disappointed with Missed out: Kurt Cunningham himself to be stumped for a run-a-ball 25.

John Welch's unbeaten half-century helped Old Leysians to a five-wicket win at home to Witcham in 1A of the Cricket Stick CCA Junior League.

Nigel Pate scored 33 and Angus Pate 31 for Witcham as they posted 151 for 9.

But Welch hit 59 not out as Old Leysians went through with 155 for 5. In Division 2A, Chatteris II moved up to third in the table and won bragging rights in the local derby against March III with a seven-wicket win. March batted first and were soon in trouble with opener Rob Cumming going for six, but with Pat Ringham (21), Nathan Foad (35), and Brett Tinnion (25) that steadied the innings before Jim Surtees took two wickets in two balls, and, on the hat-trick ball, had a catch dropped.

The young bowler finished with 3 for 30 as March were all out for 163, with Liam Boxall grabbing 3 for 29 off just four overs.

Chatteris' father-and-son opening partnership of Malc Perry (54 not out) and Ben Perry (17) got the home side off to a good start, before Matty Hollis hit 46 off 40 ball.

A captain's innings of 27 not out from Grant Osbourn saw Chatteris home with two overs to go. In Division 4A, Chatteris III lost at home to table-toppers Cottenham by four wickets.

Steven Reid, playing his first game of the season, hit 88 not out in a Chatteris total of 163 for 9 from 40 overs. Chatteris' bowlers made a great start as 14-year-old Kriss Brown removed the openers before another two wickets fell.

But Dan Parrott (54 not out) saw Cottenham home.

» Football: Former King's School pupil joins League One club

Happy Valley move for Nick

JUST three months ago, Nick Pope was all set to take up a degree course at Nottingham University.

Next month, the Wicken-based goalkeeper embarks on pre-season training with Charlton after a whirlwind rise to the top.

Pope, 19, only broke into the Bury Town first team on a regular basis towards the end of March, having made his debut three years ago.

But he was spotted by Athletic scouts playing in a 2-1 win at Billericay soon after getting into the Ryman League side, and invited for a trial at the Valley.

And the England Colleges international impressed enough for the League One side to snap him up on a two-year deal.

Pope admitted he was still amazed at the turn of events, given he has only played a handful of games above Ridgions League level with the Suffolk club's development side Team Bury.

He said: "It's really a case of being in the right place at the right time and a bit of luck that I played well when I needed to, but I'm really happy to get this chance."

"I've been at Bury and West Suffolk College for the last three years and that's helped my development a lot playing a lot of games for the college, Bury under-18s and Team Bury.

"The Bury manager, Richard Wilkins, also oversees the football side of things at the college, so he can look at both sides of the coin, and he has given me a lot of good advice."

The Addicks are also allowing Pope to take a degree in sports science at Roehampton University alongside learning the ropes on the training ground.

"I'd already planned to go to university, so I'm certain it will benefit me in the future, and the club are paying my fees, which definitely helps," he said.

However, the former King's Junior School pupil, who was once with Ipswich Town's academy, said he could not wait to get his teeth into full-time training.

He said: "It could be that I go out on loan around December time after I've been training there for a few months and got used to it."

"With goalkeepers, a few mistakes or injuries are all you need to get a chance, but I'm just going to be patient.

Charlton chance: Goalkeeper Nick Pope.

"I've got age on my side because 19 is young for a goalkeeper, and I wouldn't expect to play for the first team immediately. It's a two-year deal, which gives me time to develop rather than the pressure being on straight away, and I can't wait to start."

» Athletics

"With the death of long-serving member Gipp earlier this year, the club and particularly the junior section wanted to give something back as she was such an inspiration and role model winning several Frostbite League XC races during her time with the club," said Alan Rutterford, the club's head coach, who had many memorable races against her where she always got the better of him.

With the overcast and wet conditions, and a there and back 5km

Juniors turn out in memory of Diana

(3.1 mile) course, Aiden Merry was the first over the line in 21min 51sec, followed by Lewis Leonard 22.45 (first age graded 69.74 per cent) and the first female Robyn Seabright, who was third in 23.25.

Alexander Ellwood was fourth in 23.59, James Holland fifth in 24.04.

They were followed by Molly Butler (24.28), Esme Wright (24.40), Adrian Chalmers (24.57), Fraser Crossman (25.23) and Nathan Pennington (26.08).

Rutterford said: "We would like to thank all the parents, who acted as marshals for the race. Thanks also to the juniors for such a good performance and great times in such tricky conditions due to a sharp shower before and during the event."

Angry:
Shane Sadler, who thought he had done enough to beat his Scottish rival.

Sadler is angered by split decision

SHANE Sadler was fuming after losing on the Army's match against Scotland in Edinburgh.

It was the third successive loss for the Stretham-based England international, but, while he accepted defeat in his previous two bouts, he felt he was robbed this time after going down on a split decision to Scottish middleweight champion Stewart Burt.

He said: "I was really unhappy at the time because I'd worked very hard in training on everything that needed doing from the last couple of fights."

"I felt I boxed very well and felt very comfortable, so I was surprised when it was a majority decision and then they gave it to him."

"There's no way you could even have given it as a majority."

Sadler will take a break from the ring until next year as he will be undergoing Army courses from August to December.

He said: "I've got a little bit of time off, but I'll be back for the Senior ABA Championships next season."

■ Joe Holmes suffered defeat in his final bout of the season at a show in London.

The Haddenham hitter lost on a unanimous decision against Barking ABC's G Ridley.

Coach Simon Green said: "It was a very close bout and I thought Joe might have won it."

"He lost the first round, but he boxed really well in the second and third with some good combinations and straight lefts, and I thought he'd won it."
